

Chiba University

The history of Chiba University began with the founding of the Chiba Normal School and the Chiba Public Hospital around 150 years ago. Chiba University has 10 undergraduate schools and 17 graduate schools. And it also has a student body of approximately 14,000 and 3,500 academic and administrative staff members.

Education at Chiba University is guided by our philosophy, "Always Aim Higher," and we have been taking active steps to create a learning environment that will nurture leaders with superior intelligence and humanity, who will be able to play active roles in a global. In the area of research, we are supporting world-leading research and researchers through the Institute for Global Prominent Research, a program organized under the leadership of the President.

Chiba University has been challenging itself to offer the best environment for meeting the needs of the times. The university recently established the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as well as overseas campuses at three partner universities, and made study abroad compulsory for all undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in or after 2020.
