About this booklet:

This booklet “Class Time Schedule” shows the time schedule, classrooms, and instructors of G-code classes* with class codes starting with 23*G* and classes offered in non-Japanese languages.

G-code classes listed in this booklet are those offered mainly for international students. For the information on G-code classes for general education and those for specialty education offered in each faculty, please refer to syllabi on Niigata University Student Web System.

■ 1st Term "231G～" 2nd Term "232G～" Semester "230G～"

■ About room numbers

Please note that some of the subjects listed in this booklet will be delivered via online. Room numbers are shown only for subjects which will be conducted face-to-face.

(e.g.) B251 Advanced Education and Research Building (sogo-kyoiku-kenkyu-to),
Building B, 2nd floor, Room B251

Most classes whose room number is four digits are offered in Advanced Education and Research Building. The first number of the three digits indicates the floor of the building: 1 means that the room is on the first floor, and 2 is for the second floor, etc. For the room information of classes offered in other buildings, please refer to the notes on each page.

230G3240	Regionalism in the Asia-Pacific Region	2	ZHANG Yun	All lessons will be held on-line.	International relations	English	U/G		1-2term
		The aim of this course is to analyze international relations of East Asia through the two main perspectives of regional cooperation and major power interactions. After the Cold War, East Asia which is regarded as one of the most diverse region and weak in regionalism has accelerated its regional integration process especially after the economic crisis of 1997-98. A number of regional initiatives such as ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF), Chiang Mai Initiative (CMI), ASEAN plus Three (APT), Free Trade Agreement (FTA), and East Asia Summit (EAS) symbolize the region's efforts for strengthening regional ties in the political security, economic, financial and cultural fields. On the other hand, East Asia embraces the world's three biggest economies (The combined GDP of the U.S., Japan and China accounts for near 50% of the global GDP.), the world's largest military power and the world's most populous nation. The Cold War legacies such as the Korean Peninsula issue and the Taiwan problem remind us that the perpetual peace in the region remains to be an open question. However, the current regional institutions are widely regarded too soft to deal with these hard problems. East Asia has been the engine of the global growth while its future remains uncertain. But its future will largely depend on the two major threads: multilateral regional integration and major power interactions (China-Japan-U.S. relations in particular) The course aims to analyze the dynamism of East Asia international relations by tracing the historical and undergoing development of the above mentioned two threads.

230H5087	Seminar in Anglo-American Language and Culture	2	Gregory Hadley	To be published in the syllabus by the end of March	Humanities	English	U	3rd grader or above 1-2term
Words have fascinating stories to tell about the history and culture of their speakers, about the human mind and human creativity, and about the power of language. In this seminar course we explore the culture of English words. This will entail a study of the origins of English words, tracing back a number of common and uncommon words and phrases through history to get to their roots.

◇Period 3

230L3905	Special Lecture (Japanese Family Law and Society, Basic)	2	TAMAKI Teiko	To be published in the syllabus by the end of March	Law	English	U	2nd grader or above 1-2term Students taking this course are expected to understand its very feature that all classes will be held in English. Active participation is also a key element of this class. Absence without notice is not permitted – participating students are required to inform of their absence from class or delay of attendance with a compelling reason by email to the lecturer.
The course is aimed to provide an outline of laws concerning family which is regarded as a minimum and fundamental unit of society, by illustrating the structure of the current law and the family court system from historical and socio-legal perspectives. It also refers to a new concept and issues of "family", which can be differed from a traditional notion of family in Japan.

◇Period 4

230G3239	International Relations in the Asia-Pacific	2	ZHANG Yun	All lessons will be held on-line.	International Relations	English	U/G	1-2term
This course is to introduce and analyze the dynamic international relations in the Asia-Pacific. The Asia-Pacific has emerged as a region of global significance. It houses the world's three biggest economies, the world's largest military power and the world's most populous nation. The Cold War legacies such as the Korean Peninsula issue and the Taiwan problem remind us that the perpetual peace in the region remains to be an open question. At the same time, the interdependence of member countries in the region is increasingly deepening. The Asia-Pacific is such a fluid and dynamic region that it demands continual reappraisal and reconsideration.

232L3606	Special Lecture (Chinese Politics, Basic)	2	MASUI Yasuki	To be published in the syllabus by the end of March	Politics	English	U	1st grader or above 1-2 periods Students are expected to have a high motivation for learning Chinese politics and diplomacy.
		Be able to observe China from a comprehensive perspective considering its neighboring countries as well as its power in international relations through the study of the political history of modern China (1949-). The remark & criticism on China should be based on fair and objective views. During the study of Chinese politics, please look at your own view of China: examine the reason why you have a good or bad view of China. Is it based on only your emotional feeling, or a rational ground? (Is it likely that one would dislike China & get emotional?) The ideal text for understanding the complexity of international relations regarded Chinese diplomacy, even if you probably have little knowledge about diplomacy or international relations.

230G3240	Regionalism in the Asia-Pacific Region	2	ZHANG Yun	All lessons will be held on-line.	International Relations	English	U/G	1-2term The aim of this course is to analyze international relations of East Asia through the two main perspectives of regional cooperation and major power interactions. After the Cold War, East Asia which is regarded as one of the most diverse region and weak in regionalism has accelerated its regional integration process especially after the economic crisis of 1997-98. A number of regional initiatives such as ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF), Chiang Mai Initiative (CMI), ASEAN plus Three (APT), Free Trade Agreement (FTA), and East Asia Summit (EAS) symbolize the region's efforts for strengthening regional ties in the political security, economic, financial and cultural fields. On the other hand, East Asia embraces the world's three biggest economies (The combined GDP of the U.S., Japan and China accounts for near 50% of the global GDP.), the world's largest military power and the world's most populous nation. The Cold War legacies such as the Korean Peninsula issue and the Taiwan problem remind us that the perpetual peace in the region remains to be an open question. However, the current regional institutions are widely regarded too soft to deal with these hard problems. East Asia has been the engine of the global growth while its future remains uncertain. But its future will largely depend on the two major threads: multilateral regional integration and major power interactions (China-Japan-U.S. relations in particular) The course aims to analyze the dynamism of East Asia international relations by tracing the historical and undergoing development of the above mentioned two threads.

230H5087	Seminar in Anglo-American Language and Culture	2	Gregory Hadley	To be published in the syllabus by the end of March	Humanities	English	U	3rd grader or above 1-2term
		Words have fascinating stories to tell about the history and culture of their speakers, about the human mind and human creativity, and about the power of language. In this seminar course we explore the culture of English words. This will entail a study of the origins of English words, tracing back a number of common and uncommon words and phrases through history to get to their roots.

◇ Period 3

230L3905	Special Lecture (Japanese Family Law and Society, Basic)	2	TAMAKI Teiko	To be published in the syllabus by the end of March	Law	English	U	2nd grader or above 1-2term Students taking this course are expected to understand its very feature that all classes will be held in English. Active participation is also a key element of this class. Absence without notice is not permitted – participating students are required to inform of their absence from class or delay of attendance with a compelling reason by email to the lecturer.
		The course is aimed to provide an outline of laws concerning family which is regarded as a minimum and fundamental unit of society, by illustrating the structure of the current law and the family court system from historical and socio-legal perspectives. It also refers to a new concept and issues of “family”, which can be differed from a traditional notion of family in Japan.

230G3239	International Relations in the Asia-Pacific	2	ZHANG Yun	All lessons will be held on-line.	International relations	English	U/G	1-2term
		This course is to introduce and analyze the dynamic international relations in the Asia-Pacific. The Asia-Pacific has emerged as a region of global significance. It houses the world's three biggest economies, the world's largest military power and the world's most populous nation. The Cold War legacies such as the Korean Peninsula issue and the Taiwan problem remind us that the perpetual peace in the region remains to be an open question. At the same time, the interdependence of member countries in the region is increasingly deepening. The Asia-Pacific is such a fluid and dynamic region that it demands continual reappraisal and reconsideration.
